LECTURE ON GEMOLOGY GIVEN AT WOMAN'S CLUB

Mr. Paul Rousseau, certified gemologist, gave a most informative lecture on gemology for members of the Rochester Woman's Club. Mr. Rousseau is associated with a jewelry store in New Bedford and makes his home there.

Slides of the diamond mining industry in Southern Africa were shown where 95% of the world's supply of diamonds are obtained. These mines are immense and from each 250 tons of earth removed, only a few diamonds are found. Mr. Rousseau explained the mining processes, refining, cutting and polishing. Care must be taken to cut the rough diamonds in the shapes that will give the greatest brilliance and this craftsmanship is handed down from father to son. Most of the cutting is done in Antwerp and Brussels. One can understand why diamonds are expensive after seeing the many steps that must be undertaken to perfect the finished gem.

Mr. Rousseau also had with him the mechanisms used in a jewelry store which help the trained eye to determine the authenticity and value of various precious stones. He passed around a tray of lovely rings set with precious and semi-precious stones in modern settings which were much admired. Among these were an opal, garnet, cat's-eye, emerald, topaz and others. Also shown were a number of unset stones. Several slides of the beautiful British crown jewels were shown which are perfect for illustrating the various combinations of stones which may be used together. The program was concluded with a question and answer period.

VA SPRING DRIVE

The Volunteers of America will launch their annual Spring Salvage Drive here on April 9, it was announced by Hal Hughes, executive director.

Used articles of every description are being sought and will be picked up at the convenience of donors who call WY 4-2113 to make arrangements. Salvage items -- including clothing, shoes, furniture and appliances can also be deposited at headquarters of the Volunteers of America, located at 947 Acushnet Avenue, New Bedford.

The salvaged articles are sorted and distributed to help the needy, regardless of race, creed or color by the New Bedford post of the national social welfare organization.

The national campaign helps support many of the Volunteers of America's activities which include Old Age and maternity homes, summer camps and day care centers for children, rehabilitation of the socially and physically handicapped and school clothing programs, and others.

The salvage drive not only brings in articles which are reclaimed and become useful to the needy, but it provides a much-needed opportunity for physically and socially handicapped persons to perform useful work.

The Volunteers of America is a 66-year old organization widely praised for its varied activities benefiting thousands of men, women and children across the U. S.

Hal Hughes, in launching the salvage campaign, noted "a vital need this year for a wide variety of discarded articles which can help someone in need."
